

Hello Ramsey County Friends,

I wanted to provide a brief update on the Ramsey County All Abilities 2050 Transportation Plan. We kicked off our external public engagement yesterday with the press release shown below. In addition to the online survey that will run through March 3rd, new opportunities to engage include an on-line introductory video and two virtual community conversations on March 9th and March 28th. I am also presenting to the Ramsey County Active Living Bike and Walk Committee this evening and looking forward to our regular “JERC” check-in meeting March 8th at 2 pm at the Ramsey County Public Works offices.

Ramsey County begins community engagement for All-Abilities 2050 Transportation Plan.

Ramsey County is leading an effort to develop a long-range plan that will guide future county transportation investment decisions that lead to projects that are accessible to people of all ages and abilities.

Interested individuals, communities and organizations are invited to participate in the planning process for the All-Abilities 2050 Transportation Plan. The plan is being led by Ramsey County Public Works, and will incorporate community feedback to shape roadway, pedestrian, bike and public transportation investments for the next 27 years, through the year 2050.

The All-Abilities plan will influence the investment priorities for future Ramsey County transportation projects in collaboration with MnDOT, Metro Transit, Ramsey County municipalities and Ramsey County transportation users. Engagement opportunities will take place online, virtually and in person, and will be available in multiple languages.

The planning process will take place over the course of the next year, and engagement will be broken into three phases. Phase one will start in February with a series of community conversations.

For more information about the plan and to learn about how to get involved, visit the project website ramseycounty.us/2050Transportation.
